

Samira Patel

Professor and Associate Dean for Research | Social Welfare

SAMPLE CURRICULUM VITAE - All appointments, qualifications, publications and awards are fictional. This document demonstrates a faculty CV download.

samira.patel@example.org | 631-555-0113

Profile

Samira Patel is a professor of social welfare and associate dean for research whose scholarship focuses on disability, access to community services and interdisciplinary practice. She examines how the design of programs can either support or complicate participation for people with different communication, mobility and support needs. Her approach brings together social work, community health and participatory research.

Education and training

PhD, Social Work, Example University, 2008.

MSW, Example University, 2002.

BA, Sociology, Example College, 2000.

Academic and professional experience

Professor and Associate Dean for Research, Example University, 2022-present.

Associate Professor of Social Work, Example University, 2014-2022.

Assistant Professor, Example School of Social Practice, 2008-2014.

Community Program Coordinator, Example Family Services, 2002-2005.

Areas of expertise

Disability; community health; clinical education

Samira Patel | Selected activities

Selected publications

Fictional sample citations, included for layout review.

Patel, S. and James, K. (2026). Accessible participation in community program evaluation. Example Journal of Social Practice, 16(1), 1-22.

James, K., Patel, S., and Reed, N. (2025). Mapping service journeys with community partners. Illustrative Community Health Review, 11(3), 140-159.

Patel, S. (2025). Inclusive supervision in interdisciplinary placements. Example Social Work Education, 20(2), 77-96.

Teaching

SW XXX - Research Methods for Social Practice; graduate; design, ethics and interpretation.

SW YYY - Disability and Community Services; graduate; policy, access and practice.

SW ZZZ - Advanced Practice Seminar; graduate; interdisciplinary cases and reflective supervision.

Service and leadership

Chair, fictional Research Development Committee, 2022-present.

Member, illustrative Interdisciplinary Practice Education Council.

Faculty mentor, Example Early Career Scholars Program, 2024-2026.

Honors and recognition

Example Public Service and Scholarship Award, 2024.

Illustrative Interdisciplinary Teaching Recognition, 2022.