

My name is Abdulsalam Ighile, and I am from the Bronx. I am currently an undergraduate physics major at Stony Brook University, and I plan to specialize in Optics. I joined the laser teaching center halfway through my junior year because I became interested in the science of light after taking PHY 300 Waves and Optics. I am currently Studying Gaussian beams and will be working on an optical tweezers experiment in late 2021.